Dr. Janet Shelver Remembered for Emphasis on Action

“Growth exists from action taken at critical timely moments...Motivation, plus action plus information plus common sense, with individuals working toward the achievement of a goal can produce uncommon results” (DKG NEWS, Jan/Feb 1991). These prescient and still relevant words of Dr. Janet Shelver capture the spirit of her biennium as DKG’s International President (1990–1992), which saw the development of a long-range Society plan as well as international expansion with the formation of Germany State Organization. Lauded in her nomination as “an inclusive, enthusiastic, caring, and dedicated leader” who “emphasized and modeled cooperation and teamwork during her biennium,” Shelver received the International Achievement Award in 1993. She passed away at the age of 95 on June 25, 2020.

2020 Virtual Event Provides Convention Highlights

After careful consideration for the health and safety of members due to the worldwide COVID-19 pandemic, the DKG Administrative Board decided to transition the 2020 DKG International Convention from a face-to-face event to a virtual experience free to all members. Not all originally scheduled presentations and events will be available, but a broad sampling of activities typical of an international convention will be provided.

The 2020 DKG Virtual Event will run from July 7 – 10, with both livestreamed and pre-recorded events planned for each day. A complete schedule is now available. Programming will also be posted on the website for later viewing by members not able to attend the initial showings. One does not have to have Zoom, the platform we will be using, to view the events.

Promises Made; Promises Kept

By Cathy P. Daugherty, RP

2018-2020 International President

The final column of an international president regularly recaps the biennium during which she led the Society. What were some of the ways the promises made by this international president (IP) in July 2018 and tied to EVOLUTION,

MOMENTUM, and TRANSPARENCY were realized?

The last decade or so has seen DKG evolve into a more modern organization concerned with simplification of processes and documents while expanding member services. As Dr. Carolyn Rants, IP 2008–2010, wrote, “DKG is a can do organization. Members recognize problems and take actions to do something about them” (DKG News, Jul/Aug 2010, p. 2). During that biennium, the Society developed a strategic plan that has guided “foresight” thinking for each succeeding Administrative Board (AB). Modifications to the original plan have taken place over the years, with the 2018–2020 AB conducting an audit and making recommendations going forward. In like manner, following the simplification of our governing documents under the leadership of Carolyn Pittman, IP 2016–2018, we were again poised for further pruning efforts had the DKG International Convention been held in 2020 in Philadelphia. Today, over 100 proposed amendments remain in committee, poised to be addressed in 2022 if proposers carry them forward. So, too, our dues process has undergone major updates to support the “best business practices” an organization of our size should follow. Dues collection is more automated and less antiquated than in past years. And the benefits tied to those dues, as outlined by Dr. Jensi Souders, IP 2010–2012 (DKG News, Jul/Aug 2012, pp. 2-3), are even more valid today with services expanded in many instances. EVOLUTION is apparent.

Several key phrases have inspired and motivated members throughout the last decade, with none having more impact than “DKG is making a difference,” championed by Dr. Beverly Helms, IP 2012–2014. The ideas she shared collectively generated member MOMENTUM – a force that propelled DKG forward as a Society. “Dwelling in Possibilities,” in turn, became the mantra of the 2016–2018 biennium with Dr. Lyn Schmid leading the way. Momentum moves inspirations into actions, such as those taken during 2018–2020 to sell the Headquarters property and to merge our two 501(c)3 entities into one foundation, DKG International Educators Foundation.

Sharing information intentionally with others in a timely way by utilizing technology has been a keystone of this biennium. TRANSPARENCY, where appropriate and not in violation of confidentiality and/or our Constitution, has led to faster distribution of information to members via website postings and multiple, regular email blasts to state organization presidents and chapter presidents. Members are facilitating the dissemination of information and taking a more active role in keeping each other informed. COVID-19 has had a silver lining in this process with the need for more of our members to reach out in ways that they had previously avoided. Go-To-Meeting and Zoom are as commonly used as one’s iPhone.

Together we have utilized transparency to capitalize on the momentum of this moment in DKG’s evolution. Thank you for allowing me to lead you on this 2-year journey. It has been memorable, challenging, and humbling. I firmly believe that we, as individuals and as an organization, are all different in better ways for the experiences we shared during 2018–2020.

An avid student, Shelver earned a BS degree from Minot State Teachers College in North Dakota; an MAT in Teaching from Augustana College in Sioux Falls, South Dakota; an EdS from Purdue University in Indiana; and an EdD in Counseling and Administration from Northern Illinois University in DeKalb, Illinois. She also completed postdoctoral study at the University of South Dakota in the areas of school psychology and administration. Her career included work as a public school teacher, piano teacher, teacher and administrator of a private kindergarten that she developed, educational consultant, elementary counselor, director of elementary career education, director of post-high open curriculum for a vocational/technical school, state director of career education, and school psychologist. In addition, she was an airplane pilot, certified meteorologist, and published author!

A charter member of Mu Chapter in South Dakota State Organization, Shelver served at the chapter and state levels in many capacities, including as state organization president from 1977–1979. On the international level, she received the J. Maria Pierce International Scholarship in 1973; participated in the 1981 Leadership Management Seminar at Baylor University; and was elected Northwest Regional Director for 1980–1982. Service on Personal Growth and Services, Research, and Scholarship Committees; on the Educational Foundation Board of Trustees; and as second vice president of the Society completed her resume at the international level before becoming international president.

For Shelver's recognition in Heritage III, members from South Dakota State Organization offered this tribute: "Superlatives pale in adequately communicating heartfelt thoughts about Dr. Janet Shelver, a warm gracious ambassador ... She invites members on a journey to explore Delta Kappa Gamma's opportunities, embrace its Purposes, and enrich their lives through challenges and friendships. With her wealth of knowledge and eye for excellence, Dr. Shelver sees potential and encourages members' growth and expands horizons."

Under the Red Umbrella: A Simple Marketing Plan Template

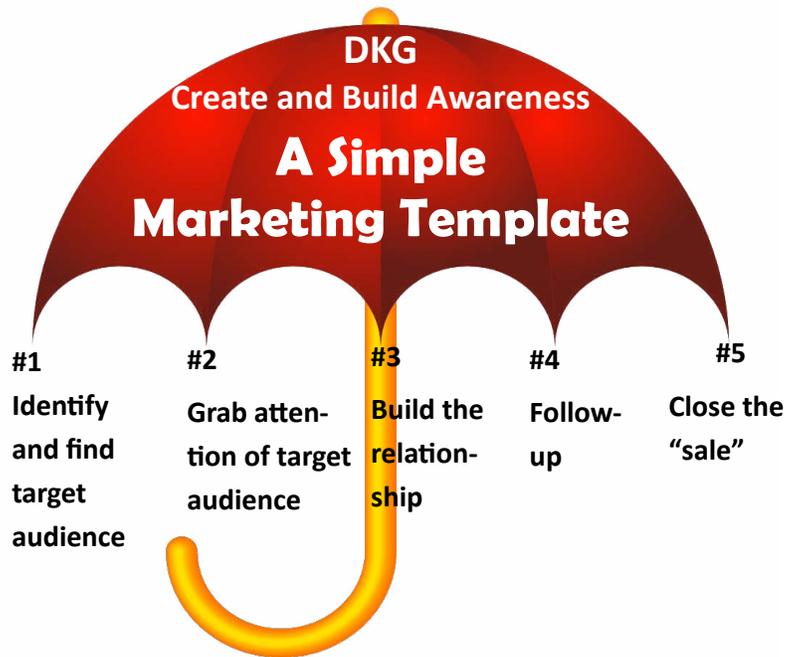

Marketing DKG can be simple with a plan. The International Communications and Marketing Committee has developed a starting place for state organizations and chapters to create a plan using a simple five-step process.

The easy-to-follow marketing plan template is designed to help states and chapters create and build awareness for any type of project or need they might have. The idea is to take each need one step at a time and break it into actions to accomplish the goal.

Step 1. Identify and find target audience: Marketing goals will generally take one of two forms – internal (to members) or external (to nonmembers), so the first step in marketing is deciding who your plan is intended to impact and where you will find that target audience.

2. Grab attention of target audience: You must get the target’s attention before you can share what you want to tell them. This can be accomplished as simply as through an email or in as detailed a way as via a multipronged social media campaign.

3. Build the relationship: Lay a solid foundation by building trust and rapport. Contact the target audience in multiple ways and many times, if needed, with your message. Be personal and open so they see the value in the relationship. Communication is key in building relationships.

4. Follow-up: Keep the relationship going. Take the initiative and contact the target audience again. Answer questions and pose some of your own to get them involved and excited. Set reminders to follow up if needed!

5. Close the “sale”: Once you have them under the shelter of your umbrella, complete the goal, whether it is getting a prospect to join or getting funding from a community business. You may need to circle back to building the relationship and following up, but the end result will be worth it – you will have reached your goal!

The process will work for internal or external marketing! Read more about the marketing plan on the DKG website under Resources → Communications and Marketing Tools → Marketing Plan.

Designing DKG

from your Members-at-Large

Designing DKG is about meeting the needs of members and issues they hold dear. Chapters worldwide are looking for ways to stay connected and work together to help during the pandemic.

Leaders in DKG Latin America are communicating via WhatsApp to share how they are responding to COVID-19 in their communities. Varied organizations are running campaigns to support families in need, and each state organization has responded locally.

As an example, in Costa Rica, approximately 2000 families are in poverty, and the chapter is supporting a food bank campaign.

The Guatemala chapter came together to support the Miguel Magone orphanage in this COVID-19 emergency. The members and their families gave a monetary contribution to the children of the orphanage to provide a nutritious and healthy meal.

In the State of Jalisco, members have been working on several programs. In the community of Las Pintas, primary grades from 3rd to 6th do not have internet. The chapter is supporting a Comprehensive Community Center where students can get online. In the community of Nombre San Ambrosio, they are teaching dance classes by recording choreography for students to practice at home.

Delta Kappa Gamma Nuevo Leon has been working in alliance with a chapter of Rotary Club for the last 2 months, providing a debit card that offers financial help for a family's basic food needs for 3 months. This digital food bank program is titled "Echándonos la mano!" (Giving a Helping Hand).

In addition, the state organization has been working since August on applying for grants to three different foundations, including the DKG International Educators Foundation, to help young women who are studying education. In the Mujer Educada = Familia Educado (Educated Woman = Educated Family) project, they are in the process of reviewing 33 applicants and will be giving scholarships in June 2020 to the University of Nuevo Leon, the local state university.

All Latin American members have been invited to a WhatsApp group. Many have joined this interactive forum, posting workshops, COVID-19 information, and messages. The platform gives members a chance to make personal connections and support each other.

Moving Forward with the US Forum

Henry Ford once said, “If everyone is moving forward together, then success takes care of itself.” These words come to mind as the US Forum finds itself in a unique position. No face-to-face convention means no elections. So, where do we go from here?

In March, when the pandemic began, the US Forum faced two questions: “What if the Philadelphia convention was cancelled? Would an electronic election be an option?” The election section of the US Forum Operational Guidelines indicated no authorization for members to meet electronically or to conduct business electronically. Consultation with the international president and the international parliamentarian supported this finding. Roberts Rules of Order Newly Revised (RONR) states:

“If the bylaws [in this case, the US Forum Guidelines] authorize certain things specifically, other things of the same class are thereby prohibited” [RONR (11th ed.), p. 589, ll. 3–34].

Because the Guidelines specifically authorize only the steering committee to meet and to conduct business electronically, meeting and conducting business electronically by the general membership [other things of the same class] are thereby prohibited. The general membership must meet face-to-face in order to conduct its business, including the election of its steering committee.

The Guidelines do not provide for the steering committee to be elected by any alternative procedure, such as a vote by mail. The stated provision also means that the current elected officers will remain in office until their successors are named. If a member of the committee resigns, her replacement will be appointed by the chair and then endorsed by the steering committee. The next convention will be held in 2022; therefore, there will be no election until that convention.

However, there are a few changes in the committee’s make-up due to one resignation and two new appointments made by the chair and endorsed by the steering committee. Kathy Davis, chair, stepped down shortly before her death on June 18 and appointed a new chair and a new NE representative to complete the makeup of the 2020-2022 US Forum Steering Committee per Section D in the Guidelines. The committee endorsed those appointments when it met later in June. The 2020–2022 US Forum Steering Committee includes:

Chair: Barbara Bostwick-Quinn, New York

NE Representative: Carol LaPolice, Massachusetts

NW Representative: Sally Nyhus, Minnesota

SE Representative: Karen Walton, South Carolina

SW Representative: Daphne Cagle, California

Support the 2020–2022 US Forum Steering Committee as it moves forward to address legislation that affects women, children, and education!

Some of what members can look forward to will include the two scheduled featured speakers, a variety of workshops originally selected for presentation, an interview with Evelyn Barron, author of Our Heritage IV, announcement of the 2020 Achievement Award winner, election results, installation of officers, a combined forum event addressing diversity, and much more. No business sessions are scheduled!

Plan now to “attend” the 2020 DKG Virtual Event for a taste of what an international convention encompasses. Then begin planning to attend the 2022 DKG International Convention in New Orleans!

From the Desk of the Director

Although most of the world has traveled the same roller coaster recently, members of the Society Headquarters staff have certainly experienced the “ups” and “downs” of the COVID-19 pandemic. In March, we naively thought that we could all go home for a couple of weeks and the world would return to normal soon. So, we shut down the office, went home, and planned to return shortly.

Two weeks later, we realized that weeks could turn to months, and we began to plan for the long term. All staff members offered creative solutions and ideas about what they could contribute to the work of the Society from home and how they could accomplish that work remotely. Except for a few building-dependent tasks, such as printing and shipping member supplies and new-member cards, members’ needs and operational tasks were handled successfully “at a distance.” Members’ calls were remotely accessed and distributed to appropriate staff, emails were answered from home, calls were returned via personal cell phones, and we all continued to work. I am so proud of our staff for the way they stepped into action and managed almost all the tasks they usually accomplish each day – plus more!

As Texas and Austin move toward a gradual opening, we hope to return on July 13 with 50% of staff in the office on one day and the other 50% on the next. With a schedule of alternating days, all staff will have a chance to return to the building a few days each week. Hours will temporarily be a bit shorter, with the office open from 9:00 a.m. to 4:00 p.m. Central Time each business day.

While we look forward to being back to a schedule that looks a little more normal, we cannot predict the future: If the pandemic surges again, city and state officials may mandate another closing. However, this time, we will be much more prepared.

Thank you all for your patience and understanding during this time. We appreciate how you have cared about our health and safety. We hope you will take care to stay safe as well. So, wash your hands, maintain your social distance, and – until it is time to be together again – we hope you continue to email, call, chat, or even “Zoom” in anytime!

Educators Book Award Winner

"When we make safety our first priority, we may exclude opportunities to experience life on a truly transformational level. We may miss the chance of a lifetime to understand new cultures, the global impact of our talents and abilities, and indeed, what inner strength and resiliency we possess." (Goolsby, p. 125)

Unveiled Truth: Lessons I Learned Leading the International School of Kabul by Gail Goolsby is the winner of the 2020 Educators Book Award. In July 2005, Goolsby traveled to Afghanistan to serve as the first principal of the International School of Kabul. This book shares the joys and challenges of beginning a new school in a war-torn country with a male-dominated culture. While there, Goolsby learned to thrive in a foreign culture while gaining valuable insight into the people of Afghanistan and even herself. She is a member of the Beta Rho Chapter of Kansas State Organization of DKG.

Honorable mention winners are Suffrage: The Epic Struggle For Women's Right To Vote by Susan L. Poulson and Think Like Socrates by Shanna Peeples. Suffrage, in a highly readable and informative style, tells the story of the epic struggle for women to gain the right to vote in the United States. Because DKG's founder, Annie Webb Blanton, was a suffragette, this book will be of interest to members. Think Like Socrates gives insightful strategies and ideas for using questions effectively in teaching.

The Educators Book Award is given annually to a thought-provoking book with a global impact and serves to honor the work of women writing in the field of education. Committee members must read every book submitted that meets the basic requirements and provide in-depth evaluations, discuss the books submitted, and then vote on their choice for the winner. This year, 18 books were submitted that met the criteria.

Submissions are now being accepted for the 2021 award. A nominated book must be copyrighted in its first edition between January 1 and December 31, 2020. Either the publisher or the author may make the application for consideration. The book must be written by one or two women author(s), be research-based, and have a direct or implied relationship to education. For further details, see the DKG website, www.dkg.org, or contact Membership Director Trish Woodley.

The Educators Book Award Committee encourages members to use the books in a chapter meeting, provide information about them in a newsletter, and highlight them in chapter and state organization websites. Book talks, book discussions, or simply sharing copies among members are all great ways to create awareness of these significant writings.

Top Tech Tips for the 2020 Virtual Event

Running July 7–10, DKG’s Virtual Event will air a mix of prerecorded and livestreamed videos for members to view at no cost and with no registration. Follow these tips provided by the team of HQ staff members responsible for the organization and production of the event:

1. Make sure you can log on to the DKG website (www.dkg.org). Input your 6-digit member ID in the username box and your password including at least 7 characters – including at least 1 number and 1 letter. If this is the first time logging into the website, use the default password. Contact Headquarters via chat or email if you need the default password or if you have any issues.

2. Look at the Virtual Event webpage. This has replaced the convention page and can be found by clicking on “Events” in the gray navigation bar at the top of the DKG homepage. Within the Events page, members can see a schedule of events, titles and presenters of all presentations, speaker information, and more.

3. Check that you have a device capable of viewing the videos. All videos will be aired via YouTube or embedded in the DKG website. This means that your device should have three important features: an internet connection, a screen, and speakers or headphones. Great ways to view the content all week include on a tablet, smartphone, or computer. All these devices have a screen, should include built-in speakers, and should be able to access the internet, assuming a connection is available.

4. Videos will be hosted on YouTube, but all links will be found on the DKG website. (Exceptions to this are featured speakers; see #5.) Once you login to www.dkg.org and navigate to the 2020 Virtual Event page, each item on the schedule will have a play button that links to the video. When you click on the link, you will be redirected to YouTube to watch the video. You DO NOT need a YouTube account, nor do you need to install an app. The only exception to this is if you wish to comment on the YouTube videos, in which case you will need a free account. If you already have a YouTube account – awesome! Please feel free to subscribe and turn on notifications to ensure you don’t miss a video.

5. Keynote speakers Jane Golden and Olympia LePoint are giving DKG-exclusive presentations, so their videos will not be available anywhere outside of www.dkg.org. For privacy reasons, their videos will be hosted on Vimeo and embedded in the DKG website; they cannot be shared or downloaded outside of DKG. Members will be able to view these presentations for up to a year following the virtual event, but they must return to the DKG website to do so.

a. Jane Golden will have a Q&A session at the end of her presentation. Her live presentation will be embedded in the DKG website using Vimeo, so in order to submit questions through the Vimeo chat you’ll need to either 1) sign up for/already have a Vimeo account, or 2) use the chat as a guest.

b. To participate in the chat, click “Chat as guest,” enter the name you wish to be displayed, check the box to accept terms and conditions, and click the Join button to join the conversation and submit a question.

6. Although many of these events will utilize the videoconferencing software Zoom, you DO NOT need a Zoom account (free or paid) to view these events. The exceptions to this are the stress-free events, for which a free Zoom account will suffice. If you plan on attending a stress-free event, download and install the Zoom app and sign up before the week begins.

Actions of the Administrative Board

The following are the major actions taken by the 2018-2020 International Administrative Board during its meeting May 14–16, 2020:
